Are you looking for great article writing software?

Over the years I have purchased and used every piece of article writer software available. Most of them were close to being absolutely worthless.

Yet there are two or three that I highly recommend because they simply work and work well.

Let's take a closer look...

Free Article Writing Software

Search online for "free article writing software" and you won't find too many programs available. There are two you can find easily enough but both of them are worthless.

Click Here for Empower Network

The top ranking free article writer software does absolutely nothing more than give you a place to write a title, add body copy, create a author resource box, spell check and save. Heck, you might as well open up a copy of Word or NotePad and just start writing because that is pretty much all you are getting here after giving up your email address, downloading and installing. Oh, well that's not true. You'll also get plenty of spam in the future for your efforts. My rating = Worse than Worthless.

The second free article writer, offered by articlejockey.com is nothing more than a basic keyword tool. You type in the main keyword you want your content to be about and it scours Google to find other related keywords people are bidding on via the Google Adwords program. Then you write or paste in an article you have written entirely on your own, and it gives you a chance to click and add one of these newly found keywords. Once complete your new keyword-stuffed article you can save and export it. My rating = Silly and Worthless.

Paid Article Writing Software

There are a few paid programs you can pick up. I've tried two of them recently and here is quick review of both:

QuickArticlePro.com - this program seems to visit the major search engines and pulls content off of the top ranking pages for a keyword you supply. It then supposedly break the content it scrapes into sections like "intro" and "content" and "summary" though I didn't see the magic here. It provides the scraped content in the form of sentences which you can read through and select to move them into a writing area. From there you would reassemble the sentences into a new article, add a bit of your own magic to it and save. This could give you a few ideas but I don't think it really qualifies as an article writing software that actually provides any real value.

InstantArticleWizard.com - this is a nice program put together by Jonathan Leger. Unlike the above program which only seems to pull content from search engine results, this program pulls content from news, blogs, article directories and other sources as well. If you need to dig deeper into a particular keyword phrase you can do that. It then provides this information in an easy-to-read format consisting of sentences and paragraphs.

Once you have gathered all the research for your topic you can manually piece together various sentences and paragraphs to write a new article. If you subscribe to one of the more well-known spinning services, you can also spin the article from within this article writing software. It even has a one-click "research, write a new article" function that produces some pretty good base results.

Now, to be fair, I have to admit I would never use this program to write original articles for my own blog or web site. Not because it doesn't work, but because there are other options available which seem to provide even better results with far less work.

The Best Article Writing Software Programs

Article Builder is another Jonathan Leger product that is one of the most useful and powerful article writer software packages available.

This program is unique. It is actually a browser-based subscription so it works on any computer and listen...

Article Builder comes with prewritten unique articles!

It's a bit tough to explain so you should CLICK HERE NOW to watch the demo video on the site, but in a nutshell this program has a database of short paragraphs available for every topic you can imagine. Tens of thousands of these short paragraphs that can stand on their own. These were compiled from private label materials, sorted and categorized.

To "write" an article you simply tell it what category and what keywords you want included in the article and how long you want the article to be... 300 words, 500 words, even up to 1,000 words. It then searches the database for these paragraphs that make sense and in less than 10 seconds - you have a fully well-written, ready-to-publish article.

Even better, they have recently coded this program to also offer you highly spun versions so you don't even need to use spinning software to get a 100% unique version.

But wait! There's even more!!

You can also have your new articles automatically submitted and posted to any number of blogs you own and control on a schedule you own and control. Plus you can add spin-code each of these automated campaigns to randomize copy that appears at the bottom of each article. For example...

- Click here and you will find yourself reading an article generated and published by Article Builder. Notice in the last paragraph I am linking to another site for the keyword "Tim Sales" - this happens automatically.
- This post displays an even nicer "footer" - again, all automatic.

This is a great program and I highly recommend it. The downside is it they offer a limited membership. This means sometimes it will be available and other times you have to get on a waiting list for the next available slot.

The Leading Articles

I've been using the Ultra-Spun Leading Articles program for a few months now.

These articles are actually written on a variety of topics in the 500 to 600 word range. They are then HIGHLY SPUN and added to the marketplace where you can simply log in, search for articles with your keywords in them, review the article and redeem it for your own use. After any one particular highly-spun article is purchased 300 times it is removed from the data base.

Most recently they also added the ability for you to have your articles auto-publish to your blog as well. You pick the category, type of article and the schedule you want the articles published. Simply set it and forget it.

I use this article writing software to auto post to my blogs and then go back in and slightly optimize them a bit better for more long tail keywords. But it saves a lot of time because the articles are always at least 100% unique and they read well. I also use the articles right out-of-the-box with spin code for most of my backlinking processes as the article and code can be used in all the major backlink builders.
