Designing Your Perfect Life

If you have not sat down and purposely mapped out a plan and design for your life... you are living a life designed by someone else.

Your boss. Your co-workers. The administration. The church. Your family. Your spouse. Maybe even your children.

If you have not decided EXACTLY how you want your life to be, you continue to get what others give you.

It's tragic and unfortunate.

And, perhaps, it's time to make a change.

PS - Post a comment and jot down a short description of your perfect day and your perfect life. What does it look like? What are you doing? Who are you serving?
