Guaranteed Success - Cannot Fail Project

The other day I spoke with a guy who has spent a small fortune over the past couple of years buying various how to make online information products, systems and software. I asked him, "So how are you doing? Making any money?" And his answer shook me to the core. "No," he said. "I don't really have the time." (What?!)

Same week, different day, different guy.

This guy has also spent a tiny fortune buying various "how to" products but he buys them to support his primary network marketing business - a business he committed to building a few years ago come rain or shine. The difference is he is making money. A lot of money. All passive, too. Interestingly, he also "works" full time so I asked him, "So how do you find the time?"

"I MAKE the time," was the short answer.

So here is a short tongue and cheek video for the first guy... something he is probably already doing. Unfortunately it isn't producing a great result.
